

Human function

Levels of human function are associated with the consequences of disease, disorder, injury and other health conditions; they include body function//structure (impairments), activities (activity limitations, and participation (restrictions in participation). Examples include functional health, disability days, activity limitation, health expectancy, disability free life expectancy.