Collection methods:	Information about residential programs is only collected from standalone substance use services that provide residential treatment/rehabilitation.
Implementation start date:	01/07/2010

Comments:	Substance use can cause harm to individuals, their families and communities. It contributes significantly to the gap between Indigenous and non-Indigenous Australians in life expectancy and other health outcomes. The Australian Government aims to reduce alcohol and other drug problems in Indigenous communities. Improved access to treatment is one of the priority areas of the National Drug Strategy (MCDS 2004).
