Collection and usage attributes

Guide for use:	CODE 1 One-off repayable
	Refers to assistance to meet a specific event, such as direct lending or deposit assistance for the purchase of a home, which the client has an obligation to repay. The assistance is repayable (or returnable) when the client has an obligation to repay, in part or full, the value of assistance provided. The repaying of assistance can be delayed for a period of time (e.g. 12 months after the loan was provided) or returned depending on the client's income situations.
	CODE 2 One-off non-repayable
	Refers to assistance to meet a specific event, such as direct lending or deposit assistance for the purchase of a home, which the client has no obligation to repay.
	CODE 3 Ongoing repayable
	Refers to assistance that covers a specific length of time, such as interest rate assistance provided for a six month period, which the client has an obligation to repay. The assistance is repayable (or returnable) when the client has an obligation to repay, in part or full, the value of assistance provided. The repaying of assistance can be delayed for a period of time (e.g. 12 months after the loan was provided).
	CODE 4 Ongoing non-repayable
	Refers to assistance that covers a specific length of time, such as interest rate assistance provided for a six month period, which the client has no obligation to pay.

Data element attributes

Collection and usage attributes

Guide for use:	'One-off' denotes assistance consisting of a single transfer to a household to meet a specific event.
	'Ongoing' denotes assistance that comprises multiple transfers to a household covering a specific length of time.
	An instance of 'one-off repayable' assistance consists of a single repayable transfer to a household.
	'Ongoing repayable' assistance is where repayable assistance consists of multiple repayable transfers to a household that occur over a specific length of time.
	In this context, 'ongoing' does not refer to a loan for which monies remain outstanding, but refers to whether the initial assistance consisted of one or multiple transfers to a household.
