Data element attributes

Collection and usage attributes

Guide for use: CODE 1 Occupied

A household has a formal tenancy agreement for a particular dwelling. Occupied dwellings include any structures that people actually live in regardless of its intended purpose. The structure may or may not be tenatable.

CODE 2 Unoccupied, tenatable

No formal tenancy agreement exists between a household and a housing provider for a particular dwelling. A not occupied structure is only a dwelling if it is intended for human residence. The structure is tenatable, thus provides a certain level of basic amenity and maintenance is completed to the required minimum level.

CODE 3 Unoccupied, untenatable

No formal tenancy agreement exists between a household and a housing provider for a particular dwelling. A not occupied structure is only a dwelling if it is intended for human residence. The structure is not tenatable, thus the dwelling does not provide a certain level of basic amenity and maintenance is completed to the required minimum level.

Collection methods: Dwelling occupancy status describes whether a dwelling is occupied by tenants at 30 June of the reference year. A dwelling may be occupied (with people living in the dwelling), untenatable (unoccupied due to dwelling condition) or vacant/unoccupied (but tenatable).
